Did you know that a one-dollar bill does not cost one dollar? The Bureau of Engraving and Printing (or B.E.P. for short) makes one-dollar bills in Texas and Washington D.C. The workers at the B.E.P. weave linen and cotton into paper. Then they use special ink to color the paper, so it looks like a dollar bill. If you add up the cost of the linen, the cost of the cotton, and the cost of the ink, can you guess how much it costs? A one-dollar bill costs 7.7 cents.

Of course, if you take a one-dollar bill to the store you can buy more than 7 cents worth of candy. That's because a dollar is worth more than the paper and ink that are used to make it. A one-dollar bill is a promise. It says, "I promise you can trade this paper for one dollar's worth of something you want."

Imagine somebody who doesn't believe that promise. He might say, "This is only worth seven cents. I'll throw it away." That would be crazy! He would miss out on some good things.

A dollar bill is like what God did for the Israelites one time. God loved the Israelites as his special people. But they began to complain about God. The Lord sent venomous snakes into their land so they would learn to not complain. God's lesson worked. The people stopped complaining and asked for help. So God made a promise. He told them to make a statue of a snake and hang it from a pole. Then God promised, "anyone who is bitten can look at it and live" (Numbers 21:8). A metal statue cannot heal a snake bite. But just like a one-dollar bill, the snake wasn't important because of what it was made of. The snake was important because of God's promise. People who looked at the snake were trusting God's promise. "Then when anyone was bitten by a snake and looked at the bronze snake, they lived" (Numbers 21:9).

God saved your life with a promise too. "God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life" (John 3:16).

Money and statues can't save sinners, but Jesus can! That's God's promise. Rejoice, and look to Jesus in faith.
